Frequently asked questions...

Are SportGame's contests legal?

Yes, If the players do not pay to enter and there is no purchase necessary to get a game ticket or to play any game. If no consideration is required of the player, it is not gambling. The SportGame contract specifically states the location cannot charge their guests to play SportGame.

Can a player enter more than one play ticket in each contest?

That option is yours. You may allow players to play one ticket per day or restrict the players to one entry per week. SportGame's software is programmed for either choice. As the cost per play ticket is less than 4 cents, most locations encourage the players to play daily. All player entries are time stamped to the second and the receipt your staff member returns to the player has a time stamp on it.

Can a player enter more than one contest at a time?

Yes. Sometimes SportGame has four or five contests running at the same time. Each contest has a game number. SportGame's computer system handles all the sorting. When you receive your contest results each contest is scored separately.

Can a player say "Hey, these aren't the teams I picked. Someone entered my picks wrong."

They can say it, but it won't work. One of SportGame's strongest points is the player marks his own picks and signs the ticket. You don't. You can't be blamed for a mistake because the player does the work. Each time a player ticket is entered a receipt is printed with the player's ID number, the game number, all the picks, the tie breaker, exact date and time of ticket entry, and an advertising message you write. Nothing is left to chance.

Do I have to worry about players missing contest deadlines?

No. Every player's lineup sheet has a printed contest deadline and every player entry receipt is time stamped. SportGame does not expect your employees to be clock watchers. If a play ticket is entered after a contest deadline it will not be scored by SportGame's computer.

How do we get the players picks to SportGame?

Plugged into the USB port of the computer is a Stick Drive. Remove the Stick Drive and plug it into a computer with internet capabilities. Follow the instructions on the screen. When finished, (this takes all of one minute). return the Stick Drive to the computer.

When do I get my contest results?

If a sports event is contested on a Sunday, you will have your players results Monday morning. We send the weekly, monthly and contest cumulative scoring; it's all done for you by us. You tell us how you want us to score your contest (Do you want to award a prize for the worst score?) and we will do it.

What happens if the SportGame unit becomes inoperative?

SportGame will have a technician at your location as soon as possible or SportGame will deliver a new unit to you overnight. We also have an emergency backup procedure if the unit becomes inoperative just minutes before a deadline. You will never be at risk. In all 13 years, SportGame has never lost a player entry because of equipment failure. . . or any other reason.

And the cost again?

As low as 18¢ per entry... for everything... the data unit, the tickets, the scoring... everything.

SportGame also has two other programs I've heard about. . .

What are the SportGame Top Ten contests?

Organizations and sponsors found that contests where the players picked the finishers in exact order are very popular. The problem was in trying to score a contest when the players did not have a perfect score. SportGame solved that problem with a clever scoring matrix.

What is Football GameDay Million$?

Simply, football squares boards have been replaced with game pieces. No more messy boards. No more staff chaos before a game starts. No more limiting participation to the first hundred fans. Football gameDay Million$ eliminates all this hassle and does it for far less cost.
